Dr. Jacques Calvé, of France

Visiting Physician to L'Hôpital Maritime at Berek-Sur-Mer Formerly Chief of the Service of Physiotherapy of the Army of the First Division

says that Dr. Fred H. Albee's work on Orthopedic and Reconstruction Surgery "is a work of great merit and marks another milestone in the progress of orthopedics."

We earnestly believe this to be so, because Dr. Albee's book contains all his original bone-work, a full discussion of operative orthopedics for the adult as well as for the child; a comprehensive survey of braces, frames, plaster casts and other essentially non-operative procedures. The work is based on experience at home, on the first-hand knowledge gained by Dr. Albee during his work in the military hospitals of France, and his later extensive experience as head of the U. S. General Hospital at Colonia, N. J.

Large octavo of 1188 pages, profusely illustrated. By Colonel FRED H. ALBEE, M.D., Sc.D., Professor of Orthopedic Surgery, New York Postgraduate Medical School. Cloth, $12.00 net.

The First Ounce of Compound Stearate of Zinc

THE remarkable healing properties of the Zinc derivatives was discovered as early as 1784, but it remained for the laboratories of McKesson & Robbins in 1886 to produce Compound Stearate of Zinc, in the form of a white powder. When they first put C. S. Z. on the market it was used in hospitals as a surgical dusting powder.

But as the value became more evident throughout the medical profession, it began to be used as household first-aid. Then it was used in the nursery because it prevented chafing and skin irritation. It also found use in certain skin diseases. The fact that, being water-proof, it coats the skin, with a moisture resisting powder, is one of the reasons for its great value.

Naturally since McKesson & Robbins were the first to manufacture C. S. Z. in commercial quantities, and since they have kept up their standard of purity—the surest way to get pure, dependable C. S. Z. is to specify the original McK & R. on your prescriptions.
